

Legal Recognition of Collecting Societies

(2228)

As accumulated experience as well as recent academic legal research in the field of Performers Rights have established beyond any doubt that collective administration is the best way to exercise these rights, Congress calls upon all international and national legislative bodies to integrate collective administration by collecting societies set by the performing artists themselves, as in an integral part of their legislation in the area of Protection of Performers Rights.