

Artistic Freedom

(2241)

Congress declares that artistic freedom is a principle, without which development of arts in general, and music in particular, could be seriously hampered, and calls upon all supporters of arts - governmental, institutional as well as the private business sector, to preserve, as well as to observe, the principle of artistic freedom for the benefit of society.